

Anti-Suffrs Get First Victory

Speaker of Tennessee House Takes Hand in Forcing Delay Decision.

BULLETIN
NASHVILLE, TENN., AUG. 13.—The house adjourned until Monday, thus blasting suffrage hope of ratification before that time.

NASHVILLE, TENN., AUG. 13.—Anti-suffragists won their first victory in their battle to prevent the Tennessee legislature from ratifying the federal suffrage amendment when they forced a decision from the house committee, which had the ratification resolution in charge, not to report back the resolution until Monday night. This vote, which was a complete surprise to suffrage floor leaders, came by vote of 9 to 6. The senate committee at the same time by a vote of 8 to 2 decided to report ratification favorably as soon as the senate convened this morning.
Speaker Seth Walker, of the house, had a personal hand in forcing the decision of delay by the house committee. By virtue of his office of speaker, a privilege of which he rarely avails himself. He attended the

SONGBIRD HAPPY TO RETURN TO U. S.

Mme. Galli-Curci, photographed on return to New York.

Ameletta Galli-Curci, the famous coloratura soprano, returned to the U. S. a few days ago after a month in her native Italy. She came back about two months earlier than usual this year, giving as her reason that she likes America so much better than Italy. She announced that she is to become an American citizen.

meeting of the constitutional committee last night and voted to hold over until Monday night, he is also understood to have prevailed upon one of his staunch adherents in the committee to hold with him. Suffragists are bitter at what they term the speakers unprecedented action.

The house has the power to call any resolution back from committee and act on it. It only takes a majority vote to do this, and the same majority vote which would pass the ratification resolution would be able to call it back from committee. The house also would be able to act on the senate resolution, when passed by that body and reported to the house. This would involve a suspension of the rules.
What steps ratification leadership in the house will take to force a decision there today were the subject of conferences lasting far into the night without decision.

The senate is expected to act and act quickly on the ratification resolution. Suffrage forces claim to have from 22 to 25 aye votes in the senate, while anti-ratificationists practically concede the upper body.

The public hearing last night before the two committees which have the resolutions in charge brought forth one of the most brilliant displays of oratory seen in the capitol. The opponents practically all of whom were wearing the suffrage yellow or the anti-red.

TUCKER AFTER FILLING STATIONS

That patrons of Gary's gasoline filling stations are being robbed every time they purchase gasoline was disclosed in an investigation recently conducted by Frank Tucker, state inspector of weights and measures.

In an inspection trip Mr. Tucker discovered that twenty filling stations out of twenty-five have been giving incorrect measures. One pump registered five and one-half quarts short in every five gallons while another pump gave the customer an extra pint with every gallon.

Owners of the filling stations state that they were ignorant of the error and were informed after Mr. Tucker had adjusted the pumps that if it occurred again and he could catch them he would see that they were arrested and prosecuted. Accompanied by City Inspector George O'Donnell, Mr. Tucker also inspected all the scales in the received from the various districts any shortages that he found.
